

Garmin E -TREX

Just an UPDATE

Today I purchased a new Garmin - 27-7-2010 - and as you can see it is different looking to the old one, the new one is on the LEFT, the logo is different in FONT and the wording also differs.

In general the new one gets satellite acquisition faster and is more accurate.

It also can close in to as close as 12m, the older one only went as close as 50m when zooming in on a path you take.

The new version also, is easier to plan the route, by pressing the left ENTER BUTTON in a while the following will show as in this picture, then if you want to mark your position simply push enter again once.

Then when you are at the end of your pathway travelled, simply right click on the right side MENU and go down to TRACKS, push once select save and push the enter button once fast. –DONE!

This screen is also red now, before the other model was GREEN.

But marking areas and tracking your way back has never been easier!

I love this little GPS, a really amazing little machine.
