

CAMPING TREAT

Jakkals Jag Kos

If you want a simple thing to make, try this, this is a very nice snack and very nice if you are in a hurry, sometimes arriving the first day at a farm and unpacking and getting ready to hunt, that first day is a moersa rush, if so make a fire and while you are getting ready throw this on the coals.

Next time you try this, take a potato, slice it in slices of about 5mm wide, BUT just past three quarter on way down, so the potato isn't cut through all together, slice the entire potato like that, at a slight tilting angle, fill the slits with a little margarine and cover in foil. Gooi in coals, and then open it - it forms small thin chips and tastes very lekker, you can take them with at night or eat them as you are preparing to go out at night or whatever, a simple snack, and two potatoes are healthy and filling.

Give this a try; it's a simple thing to do but very lekker!

Add a little spice if needed, but plain with margarine is awesome, would be nice with a touch of salt, but I have high blood pressure so must leave the salt, but with margarine its very nice indeed.
